Senator Mayfield's Temperance Bill. In the course of the last session of the general assembly of the State the Senate a bill entitled "a bill to | Courier. forbid and prohibit the importation and transportation, manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors and beverages in this State, and to grant local option to the counties of the State. The bill seems to us, after a careful persual, to be an effort to combine the desirable features of prohibition, local option, high license and dispensary regulations. First, there is prohibithe bill provides. It is assumed that prohibition is the proper attitude of the State toward the liquor traffic. But if a county thinks that the sale of liquors under such stringent regulations as the bill provides may be carried on with safety license may be taken out. The manufacturer of alcoholic liquors and beverages is required to pay an annual registration fee of twenty-five dollars. No manufactory shall be allowed except upon petition of the township in which the manufactory is to be located. The bill seeks to eliminate as far as possible the social features of the drink habit, adopting in this respect the regulations at present in force in the dispensary. A strict enforcement of such provisions will go far towards a mitigation of the evils of the drink habit, and conduce in no small degree to the interests of temperance. Games and the attractions of the saloon do much to promote drunkenness and social degradation.

If a county wishes to have a licensed vendor of alcoholic liquors, onefourth of the qualified voters of such county as certified to by the county board of registration must petition for by a majority vote may liquor be allowed to be sold in a county. The person licensed must be approved by the county board of commissioners, and must pay to the secretary of State the sum of five hundred dollars, in addition to giving a bond with good securities for the faithful performance of his duties. Furthermore, the county board of commissioners and the municipal authorities may charge such fee for license as they please, from a nominal sum up to any amount, to be divided equally between the county and the municipal government. Under this arrangement the State's fee of five hundred dollars might be the only on the other hand it might be the least considerable of the two license charges. Provision is made for heavy fines and penalties upon those that violate the laws in this matter. The State prohibition feature of the bill will be pleasing to all earnest advocates of temperance. The bill puts the State out of the liquor business, and if it is to exist, the responsibility for its existence falls upon the people of the county who petition for the sale of it. The State permits it when a county by a majority vote asks for such a favor. Of course it might happen that many counties would vote for the sale of liquor. If they do so, in all probability be ineffectual in such counties. The hill means, therefore prohibition to the extent that prohibition is practicable. For our part, we long to see a better settlement of the liquor question in our State. Of course there are difficulties in the way of local option. When we have dry and wet counties side by side, the dry counties are more liable to absorb moisture than the wet counties are to become dry. In the present depraved condition of human nature wetness is more contagious than dryness. Still when the good people see that prohibition in a county is a benefit morally, socially and industrially they are immensely encouraged. We trust something better than the dispensary is ahead.

In the vigorous and perhaps not very elegant language of Senator Mayfield: "The dispensary is doomed Mismanagement, stealing, rebates and other scandals have dragged it down until it is now a stench; besides, the federal courts have punched a hole in the side of its structure that it is bound to go down." The great panacea of the temperance evil has been anything but a blessing to us and a real remedy. We are fully persuaded that the public demoralization that has resulted from the establishment of the dispensary has more than overbalanced the good that may have been derived from its influence upon private life. We cannot afford to adopt any temperance measure (the dispensary was never a temperance measure but from the first an industrial State enterprise) that debauches the public and strikes at the roots of civic virtue, hoping that notwithstanding the pub lic demoralization good will result to

A Bird's Friendship for a Boy.

It is a rare occurrence for animals in a wild state to select man for a companion and friend, yet well authenticated instances when this has been done are a matter of record. The following instance is vouched for by my correspondent, a young woman who is tion throughout the State, except as a close and accurate observer: Last week my brother (a lad of 12) killed a snake which was just in the act of robbing a song sparrow's nest. Ever since then the male sparrow has shown his gratitude to George in a truly wonderful manner. When he goes into the garden the sparrow will fly to him, sometimes alighting on his head, at other times on his shoulders, all the while pouring out a tumultuous song of praise and gratitude. It will accompany him about the garden, never leaving him until he reaches the garquiet boy, who loves animals, and this may account in a degree for the sparrow's extraordinary actions. I am perfectly convinced that the nesting birds on my place know me, and that they remember me from one nesting time to another. I have repeatedly approached my face to within foot of setting birds without alarming them. On one occasion I even placed my hand on a setting cardinal which merely fluttered from beneath it without evincing further alarm; yet no wild bird has ever evinced towards myself any especial degree of friendship. When I was a lad I remember an election to decide whether or not such license shall be granted. Only peared to enjoy himself in my society. I could not appreciate his friendship then, and greatly fear that I was, at times, rather cruel to the old fellow. —Louisville Courier-Journal.

Woman's Status in the South.

ATLANTA, GA., July 5 .- Since the abolition of African slavery there has been no change in the South so remarkable as that which has taken place in the status and prospects of women. This change is, perhaps, more marked in Georgia than in any other State in the South. Not unti after the adoption of the State Constitution of 1868 could a married woman hold property in Georgia. Now more than one-third of all the taxable propclambering down the side of a cliff erty in Fulton County, where Atlanta one morning with a view to reaching a is situated, a county that contains one-eighth of all the property in the Boggs took an ugly tumble and broke State, is owned by married women. his leg. Ten years ago woman suffrage was not mentioned here, except in scorn and ridicule. Now there is a Woman's Suffrage Association in Atlanta with several hundred members. There are similar organizations in nearly every city in Georgia, and a State association has been formed. Some of the leading public men of the State are persistent and enthusiastic advocates f woman suffrage, and it is probable that a bill giving women the right to vote in certain elections will be introduced at the next session of the Leg-islature. It will be defeated, of course, but at the rate of progress the equal suffragists have made in this State recently the passage of such a bill a few years hence is not improbable. -New York Evening Post.

- Can a death which is caused by mosquito bite properly be called accidental? The Court of Appeals of Kentucky has so decided, and the decision appears to the Chicago Times-Herald to be very good law. A Kentucky traveling man took out an accident insurance policy for $5,000 and departed on a journey. In Rome, Ga., before he arose one morning his right oot became uncovered and a mosquito hovering near, waiting for an early breakfast, settled on the foot "at the ase of the fourth toe' and gorged himself. Blood poisoning, as the doctors testified, was the result of the bite, and the man died. When sued on the policy the company contended nurse felt slightly embarrassed. The latest scientific invention is the hipometer. The object of this instrument is not, as the vulgar might suppose, to measure money; its purpose is to gauge the extent to which you breathe through your nose. This matter, it appears is of far more importance than might be imagined. All the lower ani-mals breathe through the nose and through the nose alone. Human beings, with their customary perversity, are given to breathing through the throat, not merely when a cold in the head compels them to have recourse to this illegitimate mode of respiration, but from their cantankerous disposition to do things the wrong way whenever opportunity offers.
Of course, they are punished for their disregard of the best animal traditions.
The scientific truth is that the oxygen of the air knows better than to allow itself to be smuggled into the lungs by the back door, as it were. It will only enter our system in the quantity desirable through the nose—the straight and narrow way. The serious predicament of the throat-breathers is at once apparent, to the outcome of their detestable habit they are kept short of oxygen. The consequence is they become anaemic and suffer from a hundred other ills to which a sensible animal refuses to be heir. By the use of the rhinometer it is open to any man to know out of how much oxygen he cheats his lungs. A most excellent instrument is this. It should promote common hon-esty and procure humanity the numerous
